

KECK PRIMARY CARE PROGRAM MEDICAL STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP RESOURCE GUIDE

Before applying, please take the time to verify guidelines & due dates

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION (AAUW)

Selected Professions Fellowships

Selected Professions Fellowships are awarded to women who intend to pursue a full-time course of study at accredited U.S. institutions during the fellowship year in one of the designated degree programs where women's participation traditionally has been low. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents. These fellowships were established in 1970 with a $25,000 grant from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation. Initially, they focused on opening doors for women in the male-dominated fields of law and medicine. However, the focus expanded over time to include science and technology, since the demand for a technologically skilled workforce has grown without proportional representation by women.

➤ Eligibility Criteria:

- Women who are citizens or permanent residents of the United States who have achieved high standards of academic excellence and show promise of distinction in their respective fields. Applicants must be full-time students at an accredited U.S. institution during the fellowship year, and should be pursuing a course of study in the United States over the full academic year. Priority is given to women who do not already hold a master's or first professional degree.
- Applicants must be full-time students at an accredited U.S. institution during the fellowship year, and should be pursuing a course of study in the United States over the full academic year. Priority is given to women who do not already hold a master's or first professional degree.

Selected Professions Fellowships are not open to previous recipients of any AAUW national fellowship or grant (not including branch or local awards or Community Action Grants).*

- Typical Deadline: December 1

AMERICAN FEDERATION FOR AGING RESEARCH (AFAR)

Glenn/Afar Postdoctoral Fellowship Program for Translational Research On Aging

The Glenn Foundation for Medical Research, in partnership with the American Federation for Aging Research (AFAR), created the Glenn Foundation for Medical Research Postdoctoral Fellowships in Aging Research to encourage and further the careers of postdoctoral fellows, who are conducting research in the basic biology of aging, as well as translating advances in basic research from the laboratory to the clinic. The award is intended to provide significant research and training support to permit these postdoctoral fellows to become established in the field of aging.

➤ Eligibility Criteria:

- The applicant must be a postdoctoral fellow (MD and/or PhD degree or equivalent) at the start date of the award (July 1)
- The proposed research must be conducted at any type of not-for-profit setting in the United States
- Individuals who are employees in the NIH Intramural program are not eligible
- Applicants who have received postdoctoral training beyond 5 years (before July 1st) must provide a justification for the additional training period
- Fellows may not hold any concurrent foundation, not-for-profit or government funding

 Former Ellison/AFAR postdoctoral fellowship awardees may apply if the criteria above are met*

Glenn/Afar Scholarships for Research in The Biology of Aging

The Glenn/AFAR Scholarships for Research in the Biology of Aging have been established in order to continue to attract new generations of talented investigators to the field of aging research. The program is designed to give students enrolled in MD, DO, PhD, or combined-degree programs the opportunity to conduct a three-to-six-month research project focused on biomedical research in aging. Up to ten scholarships will be awarded in 2020. Students are encouraged to make their proposals as focused as possible – the strongest projects are those that focus on a particular subject area. Clinical, epidemiology, health services, and outcome projects will not be considered. For one of the awards, priority may be given for a research project that focuses on eye-related diseases and conditions.

- Eligibility Criteria: Applicants must be MD, DO, PhD, or combined degree students in good standing at a not-for-profit institution in the United States. If accepted, applicants will be asked to submit a Proof of Enrollment form confirming their enrollment at a U.S. institution. Applicants may not hold another award or participate in another scholarship program concurrently with the Glenn/AFAR Scholarship

NATIONAL MEDICAL FELLOWSHIPS, INC.

Emergency Scholarship Fund

The NSF Emergency Scholarship Fund was established to provide a means to address 3rd and 4th year underrepresented minority medical school students whose continuation in medical school is severely threatened due to a financial crisis. Typically, students apply for this assistance when circumstances beyond their control have created a financial hardship that makes it difficult to continue in medical school. The emergency must be sudden, unexpected, and unbudgeted. Applications, deemed eligible depending on financial need, will be reviewed for award by the

Keck School of Medicine of USC

ESF Advisory Committee. Emergency scholarships are non-renewable scholarships and applicants cannot be receiving another NMF Scholarship at the time of application. Generally, it is expected that the request will not exceed $5,000.

- Eligibility Criteria:
 - The NMF Emergency Scholarship Fund is open to underrepresented minority students who are US citizens, and enrolled in accredited medical or osteopathic medicine schools located in the US.
- Deadline: Monitor website for details

Latino Alumni Association Scholarship

The USC Latino Alumni Association provides partial-tuition scholarships to USC undergraduate and graduate students who have demonstrated a strong commitment to the Latino/Hispanic community. Graduate scholarships are for master's candidates only and limited awards for Juris Doctor, pharmacy, and medical doctor candidates are available. Scholarship awards range from $2,000 to $5,000 per academic year for undergraduate students and $1,000 to $5,000 per academic year for graduate students.

- Eligibility Criteria:
 - A number of factors are considered by the Scholarship Committee, including a student's involvement in activities and service at USC and the community.
 - We are particularly interested in funding students who have demonstrated a commitment to the Latino community, shown leadership potential and have exceptional academic and professional potential.
 - Scholarship applicants must be enrolled as full-time students: undergraduate students must complete a minimum of 12 units per semester with a 3.0 cumulative GPA and graduate students must complete a minimum of 6 units per semester with a cumulative 3.0 GPA.
 - Scholarships are awarded on the basis of need and/or merit. A needs assessment and overall financial aid package will be evaluated to determine the amount of assistance provided by the USC Latino Alumni Association.

Skull and Dagger Foundation Scholarship Selection

The Skull and Dagger Foundation has established two scholarships in memory of former Permanent Masters of the Society. The first was established in 1989 and is named in memory of Dr. Kenneth Owler Smith, a professor of Journalism, who served as Permanent Master of the Society from 1983 until his passing in 1988. The second was established in 2002 in memory of Dr. Harrison M. Kurtz, a professor of Biological Sciences, who served as Permanent Master from 1989 until his passing in 2001. A third scholarship was established in 2014. The Barden Centennial Scholarship is dedicated in memory and honor of Bella and Don Barden, and also celebrates their daughter's, Alana Marshall Barden ('13) initiation into the Skull and Dagger centennial class, which was made possible by Bella and Don's support and financing of her USC education. The William I. Griffith Scholarship is named in memory of Bill Griffith, member of the Class of 1946, who served as Editor of the Daily Trojan. All four scholarships are awarded annually to the continuing USC students (graduate or undergraduate) who have demonstrated significant campus and/or community leadership.
